To whom it may concern,

Paul and Bridget Johnson were considered as interveners but I believe they were removed because they don't live on their land that is within 2 miles of the proposed BESS location. Paul and Bridget are my parents, their land is in a trust, and my name is on that trust. I will receive that land someday when they die. I live adjacent to their land. It was mentioned in the last meeting that since they don't live on the land that is within the 2 miles, that they don't get a say in the matter or basically they shouldn't care so much. Well, I am their daughter and my kids are their grandchildren, they care for our wellbeing. My parents both received a letter about the BESS even though they don't live on the land. If it was important enough to send them a letter because they own property, it's important enough to let them have a voice in the matter.
